A fairly reliable source with excellent contacts in
Rumanian emigre groups in Germany.

1. The defeat suffered by Roria SIMA, following a break within the Iron Guard movement, is displayed by the following figures:

A. Of a total of nine former Legionnaire commanding officers who are in exile, eight have declared themselves against Roria SIMA.

B. Of 20 sub-commanding officers, 18 have renounced SIMA (the ranks of these officers were obtained in Rumania and were not awarded by Roria SIMA during the period of exile).

The number of the Legionnaires themselves who have remained loyal to SIMA may be deducted from the preceding figures, inasmuch as the rank and file are being faithful to their respective regional leaders.

2. In all of Germany only the following Legionnaires have remained loyal to SIMA: Grigore MANOIILESCU, Constantin SASU, V. VELESCU, I. SOMCA and PERIPAN, and LEONTIES who has not yet definitely decided.

3. In view of the above situation, Roria SIMA is attempting to save his position by the following manner: He has established his headquarters in Bavaria by utilizing as a support point the German-Rumanian Cultural Institute; he is counting on the Rumanian members who belong to the Institute and who have remained loyal - MANOIILESCU and SASU. SIMA has been in Bavaria for some time, living clandestinely under MANOIILESCU's protection (Redwigstrasse 2/II, Munich).

4. In Bavaria, SIMA has decided to concentrate on several Legionnaire leaders who have remained on his side. Vacile HAILAT of Salzburg has come to Germany after successfully legalizing his sojourn. Traian KIVIN is also now moving to Germany from Salzburg (Elisabethstrasse 55) although he has not yet obtained the approval of his establishment in Germany.

5. SIMA has started a campaign to win over those who are still undecided by sending a few influential individuals of his entourage to Germany. The Legionnaire industrialist, Constantin DRAGAN, No. 9 Via Largo, Rome, has
